

STEWART AND LAMAR.

Stewart's advocacy of Lamar is provoking considerable criticism among Republicans. Stewart, as usual, is looking a good deal further ahead than his critics, and will demonstrate this fact further on. The bloody shirt is no longer a factor in politics, and no one knows this any better than Stewart. The reasons set forth in his letter are perfectly sound, and any thinking man will so accept them. What ever were Lamar's views during the war, he has avowed his irrevocable fealty to the Constitution since the war, and no man doubts his disposition or ability to keep his word. Another thing to be considered which has perhaps been overlooked, is the importance of making friends for Nevada and the silver interests at this time.

Should a bill advancing Nevada's interests be introduced by Stewart he would have the support of the Solid South, and the Northern Democratic States. In fact, it is not unlikely that he has made that same trade already. What earthly benefit would Nevada derive from the rejection of Lamar? Are not the interests of our own State of much more importance than the principle herein involved? Suppose Lamar proves an unrepentant rebel and the choice a bad one as predicted, will not the Democratic Administration be the principle sufferer in the campaign of next Fall? Lamar is an old man and is not likely to survive the Republican Administration which comes into power a year from next March. The vacancy will be filled by a Republican.

If Lamar has been reconstructed the appointment is all right. If he has not been, so much the better for the Republican party next Fall. The Solid South must be broken by diplomacy, and West Virginia is leaning our way. It is easier in politics to catch flies by molasses than to drown them in vinegar.

If we have to stand a Democrat—and all concede this—why not Lamar? Are they not all off the same piece of cloth?

To Wool Growers.

Justice, Bateman & Co., Wool Commission Merchants of Philadelphia, in their circular under date of Jan. 2nd, 1888, give the following facts regarding Nevada wool:

"Notwithstanding the lack of demand for other territorial wools, the fine clips of Nevada, which are particularly suited to the present wants of manufacturers in this market, owing to their softness and finish, are inquired for today, and command relatively better prices than any other fine territorial wools. The market has been cleared of these qualities, and much more could be placed immediately at full quotations."

They also give the following figures to show the present price and what it would be if President Cleveland's free trade ideas were carried out:

	Present price.	Free Trade.
Utah and Nevada fine choice	18	11 3/4
Utah and Nevada fine heavy	18	11 1/4
Utah and Nevada medium choice	20	14 1/2
Utah and Nevada medium heavy	16	11
Utah and Nevada coarse 3 blood	20	18 1/2
Utah and Nevada carpet wool	15	10

—The Mobile Register, Democratic to the backbone, insists that if a reduction of $50,000,000 is made in the duties on imports, "large bodies of home laborers must either go out of the manufacturing business and swell the increasing overflowing number of unproductive farmers, or the price of home labor must be reduced to equalize American factories with foreign. It will be a bad day for us when we go before the American people as advocates of lower wages. And yet that is precisely what we propose to do when we have the heart of the American market to the vultures of the Old World. . . . The party that attempts it will meet with overwhelming defeat—not only in the national elections, but very speedily in the State elections of even these Southern States."
